TWENTY-SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT.

ONE of the pleasant things connected with writing the Annual Report of the Bellevue Training School for Nurses is, that it will go as a greeting to all the graduates, who, though they are scattered in all parts of the world, never pass beyond the memory of the Managers of that School to which they owe their education.

In looking back to the foundation of the School, a quarter of a century ago, we are reminded of the grain of mustard seed, "which indeed is the least of all seeds, but when it is grown it becometh a tree." This seed has indeed become a fair tree, the leaves of which, with God's blessing, are for the healing of the nations.

Our graduates now number 580; at the present time sixty-seven are holding hospital positions, either as superintendents, matrons, or head nurses. Twelve are district nurses among the poor, eleven in this country, and one in Holland.

As missionary nurses, two are in China, two in Turkey, and one in India.

One hundred and eight have married.

Forty have died.

Nine have studied medicine.

With the establishments of schools for nurses connected with every principal hospital in the city, there arose a fear in the minds of some that the ranks of the profession would be overcrowded, but not long after the breaking out of the war between the United States and Spain, the surgeons in the army recognized the value of female trained nurses to care for their sick and wounded men, and now a large number are employed in connection with the army. One of our graduates has charge of 135 nurses in Cuba, and another is in charge of the nursing at the General Hospital, San Juan, Porto Rico.

Early in June, Commissioner Keller offered the Sturges Surgical Ward to the Government for soldiers and officers who could not be received at the army hospitals for want of sufficient accommodation. The first thirty men came from the transport Seneca about the middle of July, and from that time until the middle of October the Ward was constantly filled.

There have been 652 calls for private nurses during the year, and 39 calls to fill hospital positions, but as many of the hospitals could offer only very small salaries, we have filled only nine :

St. Luke's Hospital, St. Paul, Minnesota.

City Hospital, Toledo, Ohio.

Memorial Hospital, Long Branch, New Jersey.

City Hospital, Kingston, New York.

The Fitch Hospital, Buffalo, New York.

Two head nurses to the American Hospital in the City of Mexico.

The formal applications to enter the School during the year 1898 were 1850; of these thirty-seven were accepted as pupil nurses. For the present graduating class forty-seven were accepted, but during the two years' service sixteen were dropped, some for cause, some were not found equal to the duties of the second year, and one after being in the School for some time, left and engaged in private nursing, calling herself a Bellevue graduate. For the next class thirty-seven were accepted, but already ten have been found unsuitable.

The general health of the nurses during the past year has been good. There have been only two cases of serious illness, and both made a good recovery.

The Managers would impress upon physicians in all parts of the country the danger of giving certificates of health to applicants for admission to the Bellevue School who have any tendency to Lung trouble, Rheumatism, or Mental disorders, as a few months in the wards of Bellevue Hospital will almost invariably develop those diseases when they are latent.

The courses of study and of lectures are the same as last year. The Seniors have two classes and one lecture per week, the Juniors have two classes and one cooking lesson per week.

Six lectures each were given by Dr. Garmany on Surgery and Emergencies.

Dr. Carlisle on Diseases.

Dr. Robert Wylie on Obstetrics.

Dr. W. Pulley on Fluids of the Body and Bacteriology.

Miss Bannister on Massage.

The Lazarus Pavilion has been occupied by one or more of our graduates during eight and one-half months of the past year. The expenses of that Pavilion are paid from the Mary de Witt Cuyler fund.

Mr. Northcote again enabled us to open the Edith Home for three months, during the very hot weather. Many tired nurses and teachers found in that delightful spot the rest and quiet that enabled them to return to their work with renewed strength and vigor.

The Managers desire to thank Commissioner Keller for the kindly co-operation with their work which he has manifested during the past year.

Also they highly appreciate the continuous kindness and courtesy shown to the nurses and officers of the School by Mr. O'Rourke, the Superintendent of Bellevue Hospital.

The Managers of the School are more and more impressed every year with the necessity of adding an annex to the School building. We have now reached the limit of pupils we can accommodate, 75 ; and this is only done by renting a large number of rooms from the Bible and Fruit Mission next door. In many of the departments the surgeons and physicians are urging the necessity of more nurses, and an additional building will be called for in the near future to supply this demand.

VIRGINIA R. OSBORN,
Secretary.

ADDRESS TO THE GRADUATING CLASS.

BY DR. SAMUEL ALEXANDER.

LADIES and Gentlemen : I wish to express my thanks to the Board of Managers of this Training School for the honor which they have done me in inviting me to address the Graduating Class of this year. This honor, as your Chairman has stated, has been usually conferred upon one of the senior members of the Medical Board of the Hospital. I, therefore, must infer that I am one of the senior members of the Medical Board at the present time, and upon inquiry I find that, unfortunately, I now rank fifth by seniority of appointment among the surgeons. This, in spite of my most earnest endeavors to preserve my youthful appearance, has evidently not escaped the notice of the Managers of this School, who have discovered my gray hairs, which, I am happy to say, are sometimes regarded as a badge of wisdom. At the same time it makes me feel old. It has been said that a man is only as old as he feels. According to this test, I should be a candidate for admission into the children's division of the Marquand Pavilion. Especially do I feel my youth when I find myself called upon to give advice to those who, having completed their course of study in the Bellevue Training School, and having successfully passed their examinations, are about to enter upon the practice of their profession.

I believe that it has been the custom for my predecessors to confine their remarks to praise of the Bellevue Training School, and to sage advice to the nurses who are about to graduate. I shall not depart from this well recognized custom, so far as the first is concerned, but so far as giving you ladies advice is concerned, I beg leave to be excused. I have too often suffered from good advice myself, not to have compassion upon you to-night.

The Managers of this Training School do well to be proud of its twenty-six years' record. As the first Training School for women established in this country, it has set an example and fixed a high standard of merit, which few schools have been able to equal and none have ever surpassed. It must be a gratification to those ladies who were the Founders of this School, and who, I am happy to say, still guide its course, to look back upon the uninterrupted success which has crowned their first efforts. The difficulties which they have had to overcome, and the great good which they have wrought in the cause of suffering humanity, and in the higher professional education of women, are a lasting monument of their work.

The medical profession, and especially those members of it who are officially connected with the great Hospital in which the students of this School are trained, are under everlasting obligation to those who originated the idea of founding this School, and who have presided, for a quarter of a century, over its destinies. In the name of the Medical Board of Bellevue Hospital, I desire to tender to the Managers of this School our heartfelt thanks, and to express our appreciation not only of the work which the nurses have done and are doing in this Hospital, but also to the wise management of the superintendent and assistant-superintendent of your School, whose labors and work are fully appreciated, I assure you.

At the present time the public at large, and especially those of the present generation, look upon trained nursing of the sick as rather a matter of course, and cannot be made to realize the wonderful change which has taken place for the relief of suffering humanity in the last quarter of a century; and I think it is important that the value of the professional training that is given in this School should be better appreciated by those who now enjoy the benefits which flow from this and other training schools. If this was better appreciated, I have no doubt that this School would not need, as it does at present, generous friends to improve and enlarge its accommodations, and to better equip it for its great work.

If anyone needs proof of the power and influence of this School, I need only point to what happened during this last summer, when we heard from all sides and from far-away countries of the great good that the nurses, Graduates of this School, were doing for the sick and wounded soldiers of our armies. And if I may be pardoned for alluding to a personal reminiscence, I should like to recall for you the day when the army transport Seneca arrived in this port. We had never seen, even at Bellevue Hospital, a group of patients so wofully in need of care, and as one after another of the soldiers was carried down the aisle of the Sturges Pavilion, it made one's heart sick to think that the Government of the United States could not care, or at least did not seem to care, for those who had fought for our flag. And when I saw the change which in an hour took place in the condition of these men, it taught what the Training School of Bellevue Hospital was, and what the trained nurses could accomplish.

To those of the public who are here to-night, I desire to say that you cannot give your money for the glory of God and for the honor of the flag to a better object than to enlarge this School, the sole object of whose Founders was to improve the nursing of the sick, and those of you who have experienced the benefits which have had their source in this School, should be ready to respond eagerly to the moderate appeals which the Managers make at the present time.

But I have been specially invited to address this evening the Graduating Class.

We live, ladies of the Graduating Class, in an age of ideals. It is a popular theme for writers of fiction and of drama to attempt to portray the character and work both of the surgeon and the nurse. These ideal portraits are usually interesting, often amusing, sometimes painful, and always exaggerated. The writers of such are often unjust, though meaning to be kind; they do great harm though meaning to be complimentary. If you take, for example, the ideal surgeon as portrayed in fiction, we are inclined to think that it is fortunate that more details of the career of his patients are not given. As a rule, the writer of fiction makes the surgeon do nothing except that which is most likely to be harmful to the patient in real life, and it has often been a surprise to me that the patients of fiction ever survived as long as they did, owing to the kind of medical attention and nursing which they received. Nor do I think that any of you would care to adopt the nurse of fiction as the type of the trained nurse of to-day. I am inclined to think that, under the present rule of the Bellevue Training School, Glory Quayle, as portrayed by Hall Caine, would not even have passed the stage of probation, and I doubt whether any of you would have cared to recommend her professionally. Certain it is that the things which she did as a nurse are those which, from a professional standpoint, are the most censurable. I fail to see that Glory had any of the qualifications of a good nurse, and it is always a regret to me that such a portrayal should go before the world as a true picture of your professional life. It has been urged in her defense that the trained nurse of The Christian was a very human person, very kind, very sympathetic, very willing, very cheerful, but the description of the performance of her duties in the hospital, as given to us by Mr. Caine, leads one to believe that they were done in an irresponsible manner, without proper knowledge, and in defiance of all surgical practice. Kindness, sympathy, and humanity are very essential qualities in any nurse, and I should be sorry to employ a nurse who was not intensely human, but these qualities without character and without the great essential of character, truthfulness, are absolutely of no value.

From what I know of the work of the trained nurse, I am inclined to think that we cannot do better than to adopt for our text something out of the old parable of the Good Samaritan, but, in applying this parable, I do not care to talk so much about the Samaritan himself as is usually done. You all know the story, the man who went down from Jerusalem to Jericho and fell among thieves, who stripped him, beat him, and left him half dead. He was picked up by a travelling Samaritan who had pity on him, and who, setting an example which has been followed in our modern practice, bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and, improvising by the use of his own beast an ambulance, he brought him to an inn and turned him over to the innkeeper, with these instructions: "Take care of him till I return." I am inclined to think the experience of the innkeeper is a good example of what many of you will have to go through in the practice of your profession. While I do not wish to detract anything from the value of the work done by the Samaritan, and while I believe that up to a certain point he did all that was necessary, I think that, like many physicians of the present day, his directions to the innkeeper, who was the nurse, were entirely inadequate to meet the requirements of the case. I have often wondered what happened after the Good Samaritan went away, and the innkeeper was left alone with his patient. Many questions must have arisen in his mind. How often the dressings were to be changed? How best was he to relieve his sufferings? What was the significance of many of his symptoms? Without advice and without direction, I think that even if the innkeeper had passed through a course of training similar to that which you have just completed, he would have been in a sorry plight.

If I were to give any advice, it would be along these lines, the importance of putting the responsibility in a case where it belongs. Never fail to get the fullest possible directions in regard to your patient from the physician in charge, be sure that you understand these directions, and, having got your directions and understanding them, never fail to carry them out to the letter. The responsibility rests not with you.

I feel great sympathy with you in the life upon which you have entered, and I desire to express an earnest wish that you may be eminently successful in your work. To do this, it is necessary that you should have a proper appreciation of the importance of your work. What I say to you, I believe, applies with even more force to my own profession. The training which you have received, and the long hours which you have spent in the wards of the Hospital, in acquiring knowledge and experience which have entitled you to your diploma, must have convinced you that success in this work demands the hardest kind of application, and we are all apt to be discouraged unless we keep constantly in mind the high object for which we are working. The trouble with most of us Americans, both men and women, is that we crystallize too early, that we reach the limit of our development before the fruit is really ripe. If you think that because you have spent two years in acquiring your profession you know all there is or can be learned in regard to nursing, then I say that you will never make good nurses.

The care of the sick is a very high duty, and it is incumbent upon you not only to study the application of all the means which you have been taught, but to acquire new methods and to learn daily new ways by which you can relieve suffering and promote health. You should keep constantly in mind that each of you is working toward the better development of a great science and art, and I say to you now that unless you are willing to adopt your profession as your first love, and make all things subservient to it, you will not achieve the highest measure of success. If you do not love it, or can make yourself love it, then you need no further advice from me or from anybody else. To tell you to be cheerful, to be sympathetic, to be surgically clean, to be considerate, to be prompt, to be truthful, would be superfluous. If you love your profession, you will be all these things, and more than these, because you will find that they are powerful influences to aid you in your work. And if you do not so love it, then unquestionably there will be marked deficiencies in all these respects which no words of advice from me could prevent. And incidentally I might depart from my promise not to give you advice, to speak a word in regard to this question of sympathy about which so much has been said. My experience has been that so many women and men think that true sympathy with a patient suffering pain is to describe some scene in their own experience which shows that they or someone else has suffered a great deal more pain. I do not think it makes a patient feel any better to be told how much more someone else has suffered. It is far better, if sympathy cannot be expressed in any other ways than this, to express it by silence.

Let me advise you that the results which you obtain from your work are not always the true estimate of its value. Results, as a rule, are unsatisfactory. The amount of work required to achieve a given result always seems so much greater than the result itself that we are apt to grow discouraged. It is certainly true that the test of true success in life is in work well done, and not in the results.

And now, ladies of the Graduating Class, in closing let me, in the name of the profession which I represent to-night, welcome you to the ranks of that great army of men and women whose chief aim is to relieve the physical sufferings of mankind. If you are earnest in the cause of your profession, you will find much of enjoyment in your work. It is my hope that you will have great prosperity. Don't forget how to laugh. I would not give much for a nurse who could not laugh. But you must realize that there will be times in your experience when you will meet with sorrow and disappointment. Your best efforts will often pass unnoticed, your mistakes and shortcomings are likely to be remembered. I can assure you, however, that the record of your good deeds can be read in the laughter of the children, in the light of mothers' eyes, in the hearts of the sick to whom you have ministered. And we have good reason to believe that they are recorded in the annals of eternity. When you are brought face to face with experience which makes you feel that “ . . . there are other griefs within,

And tears that at their fountain freeze ” ;

when you are called to attend upon those who are sick unto death, and to minister to those who are called upon to die, it is especially important for you to have a higher ideal in life than I have pointed out to you to-night. The need of a stronger power than can be obtained from human hands is often felt, and I do not think that I can leave with you a better watchword than that to be found in this hospital hymn by Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes :

- “ O Love Divine, that stooped to share
Our sharpest pang, our bitterest tear,
On Thee we cast each earth-born care ;
We smile at pain when Thou art near.
- “ Though long the weary way we tread,
And sorrow crown each lingering year,
No path we shun, no darkness dread,
Our hearts still whispering Thou art near !
- “ When drooping pleasures turn to grief,
And trembling faith is changed to fear,
The murmuring wind, the quivering leaf,
Shall softly tell us Thou art near.
- “ On Thee we fling our burdening woe,
O Love Divine, forever dear ;
Content to suffer while we know
Living and dying Thou art near ! ”

REGULATIONS FOR TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES.

THE Committee of the Training School for Nurses has made arrangements with the authorities of Bellevue Hospital for giving two years' training to women desirous of becoming professional nurses.

Those wishing to obtain this course of instruction must themselves apply to the Superintendent of the Training School, 426 East 26th Street, New York, either in person or by letter, upon whose approval they will be received into the School for two months on probation. The preferable age for candidates is from twenty-five to thirty-two years. The applicant should send, with answers to the paper of questions, a letter from a clergyman testifying to her good moral character, and from a physician stating that she is in sound health. Applicants are received at any time during the year when there is a vacancy. A good education is indispensable for a member of the School, but applicants are reminded that women of superior education and cultivation, when equally qualified as nurses, will be preferred to those who do not possess these advantages.

The Superintendent has full power to decide as to the fitness for the work, and the propriety of retaining or dismissing them. She can also, with the approval of the Committee, discharge them at any time in case of misconduct or inefficiency. During the months of probation the pupils are boarded and lodged at the expense of the School, but receive no other compensation. They are not expected to wear the uniform of the School, but must come provided with dresses of washing material, for use in the Hospital. All clothing must be plainly marked.

After the trial months, those who prove satisfactory will be accepted as pupil-nurses, after signing an agreement to remain two years in the Training School for Nurses, and to obey the rules of the School and Hospital.

If a nurse, for reasons of her own, leaves the School before the two years have expired, she is expected to refund to the School the money she has cost it.

They will reside in the Home, and serve for the first year as assistants in the wards of Bellevue Hospital; the second year they will be expected to perform any duty assigned them by the Superintendent, either to act as nurses in the Hospital, or to be sent to private cases among the rich or poor.

The pay the first year is $7.00 a month, for the second year, $12.00 a month. This sum is allowed for the dress, text-books, and other expenses of the nurse, in connection with her work, and is in no wise intended as wages, it being considered that the education given is a full equivalent for her services. They are required, after the months of probation, when on duty, to wear the dress prescribed by the Institution, which is of blue and white seersucker, simply made, white apron and cap, linen collar and cuffs.

The day nurses are on duty from 8 A.M. to 8 P.M., with an hour off for dinner and additional time for exercise and rest. They are also often given an afternoon during the week, and have half of Sunday. A vacation is allowed.

As the Institution is unsectarian, there are no religious services connected with it, except evening prayers, and all nurses are expected to attend the place of worship they prefer once on Sunday.

COURSE OF TRAINING.

The instruction includes :

1. A good obstetrical service.
2. The dressing of blisters, burns, sores, and wounds : the application of fomentation, poultices, cups, and leeches.
3. The administration of enemata, and use of catheter.
4. The management of appliances for uterine complaints.
5. The best method of friction to the body and extremities.
6. The management of helpless patients ; making beds ; moving, changing, giving bath in bed ; and preventing and dressing bed-sores.

7. The practical care of the insane, and alcoholics.
8. Bandaging, making bandages and rollers, lining of splints.
9. The preparing, cooking, and serving of delicacies for the sick.

They will also be given instruction in the best practical methods of supplying fresh air, warming and ventilating sick-rooms in a proper manner, and are taught to take care of rooms and wards ; to keep all utensils perfectly clean and disinfected ; to make accurate observations and reports to the physicians of the state of the secretions, expectoration, pulse, skin, appetite, temperature of the body, intelligence—as delirium or stupor—breathing, sleep, condition of wounds, eruptions, formation of matter, effect of diet, or of stimulants, or of medicine ; and to learn the management of convalescents.

The teaching will be given by visiting and resident physicians and surgeons at the bedsides of the patients, and by the Superintendent, Assistant Superintendent, and head nurses. Lectures, recitations, and demonstrations will take place from time to time, and examinations at stated periods.

When the full term of two years is ended, the nurses thus trained can choose their own field of labor, whether in hospitals, in private families, or in district nursing among the poor. On leaving the School they will, after passing the final examination, each receive a diploma signed by the Examining Board and by a Committee of the Board of Managers.

As an appreciation of their services while in training, and as a mark of their esteem and regard, the Managers give a "gold badge" to those pupils who have conscientiously adhered to the rules of the School and Hospital, shown faithful devotion to duty, and an earnest desire to be a credit to the profession.

The Managers of the School wish it to be distinctly understood that they do not guarantee to take all who graduate on the Registry.

BELLEVUE REGISTRY FOR NURSES.

426 EAST 26TH ST.

Telephone No. ~~2373~~—18th.

833 Mad. av.

The Managers of the Training School have established a Registry for their graduates, where medical, surgical, and obstetrical nurses, and those competent to take charge of nervous and insane patients, can be obtained by applying either in person, by letter, telephone, or telegram, to the office of the Society, 426 East 26th Street. Telephone No. ~~2373~~—18th Street. 833 Mad. av.

The terms for the registered nurses are, for obstetrical, nervous, surgical (major), contagious, and men, $25.00 per week. Insane, and alcoholic, $30.00 per week or $5.00 per day.

Infectious and contagious cases include : Scarlet Fever, Measles, Typhoid Fever, Diphtheria, Erysipelas, Septicæmia, and Puerperal Fever.

If at a contagious case for less than a week, $4.00 per day ; $21.00 per week, or, $3.00 per day for all ordinary cases, including minor surgery.

No extra charge to be made for attending to the body after death. If called in expressly for this duty, $5.00.

A list of these nurses will be found on page 54.

1. The fee is $10.00 a year, due after January 1st.
2. Nurses are to keep the Superintendent informed of their place of residence, and when they are ready for a call, and also when they have accepted a case either obtained from the office or from any other source.
3. Nurses, while in attendance in the sick-room, are to wear the uniform, consisting of a cap, apron, and dress of washing material, unless the patient or family object, or the circumstances of the case render such a dress inappropriate.
4. Nurses are to report to the office when, from sickness or any other cause, they are obliged to leave a patient who still needs the services of a nurse, so that their place can be supplied as soon as possible.

5. It is the duty of the nurse to take the care of the patient's room, if her time is not fully occupied by the patient ; and also to make herself acceptable to the family.

6. Before making an engagement a nurse should mention her terms, or if that is not practicable, then, as soon after as convenient, and when an engagement is once made she should consider herself bound to keep it, and not be induced to break her word in order to please a patient or to secure a more advantageous position.

In making obstetrical engagements it is urged on the graduates to be most particular as to date of engagement and terms, so that there be no misunderstanding later.

If any graduate of the school in charge of a case has proved unsatisfactory, the employer is requested to report the fact to the Superintendent.

The regulations for employers are the same as those generally used in registries for nurses :

1. Travelling expenses and washing are to be paid by the employers of nurses, unless some different arrangement has been made between them.

2. A meal should be provided for a nurse when she is required to be awake all night.

3. When it is necessary for a nurse to care for a very sick person for several nights in succession, she should be allowed not less than six hours' sleep during the days. .

4. When taking entire charge of a nervous patient night and day, though a nurse may not lose her sleep, it is better for both patient and nurse that she have some time for exercise in the open air apart from the patient.

It is not expedient to multiply rules, as they are not all of general application, and many details must be regulated by the circumstances of the case. We only ask for the nurses the consideration and kindness due to those who contribute so much to the comfort and well-being of members of the family.

The Managers are most anxious to buy the land adjoining the School, on which to build an annex, the accommodation of the present building being quite inadequate for the increased number of nurses required in Bellevue Hospital.

Last spring this land was advertised for sale, and it was decided to send a letter stating the case to all the friends and patrons of the School. Unfortunately, about that time war with Spain was declared, when only a very few had heard of our needs, and the scheme for our annex had to be postponed.

CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS OF THE SOCIETY.

ARTICLE I.

The Society shall be known by its incorporated name of "THE TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES." (Incorporated February 5, 1874.)

ARTICLE II.

The object of the Society, as defined by its charter, is "the election, education, training, and providing of suitable persons as nurses for the sick."

ARTICLE III.

The Society shall report monthly and annually in writing to the "New York County Visiting Committee for Bellevue and Other Public Institutions," a branch of the State Charities Aid Association.

ARTICLE IV.

The Society shall consist of Honorary Members, Benefactors, Patrons, Members, and Associate Members.

ARTICLE V.

The Officers of the Society shall be a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary, and a Treasurer. They shall be elected annually, by a two-thirds vote, by ballot, of the Board of Managers, from among its Members. In case of the death or resignation of an Officer, a successor for the remainder of the year may be elected by a two-thirds vote, by ballot, of the Board of Managers, at any Regular or Special Meeting of the Board, two weeks' notice having been given in writing to the Members by the President or Secretary.

ARTICLE VI.

The President shall preside at all meetings of the Board of Managers, and shall call Special Meetings at discretion, or upon the written request of three Members. The President shall name the Members of Standing and Special Committees, and shall appoint, annually, an Auditing Committee of two gentlemen, Members of the Society, but not Members of the Board of Managers, to examine and report upon the accounts of the Treasurer.

ARTICLE VII.

The Vice-President shall, in the absence of the President, perform the duties of the President.

ARTICLE VIII.

The Secretary shall perform the duties usually appertaining to this office.

ARTICLE IX.

The Treasurer shall receive, invest, and take charge of the funds of the Society, and shall make written Monthly Reports to the Board of Managers of the condition of the Treasury, and a written Annual Report to the President, at the Annual Meeting of the Board of Managers.

ARTICLE X.

There shall be a Board of Managers, consisting of not less than eleven Members. Five Members of this Board shall be Members of the New York County Visiting Committee for Bellevue and Other Public Institutions. The Board may make its own By-Laws and fill vacancies in its own body. The Board may, by a two-thirds vote, remove any Member for cause. It shall prepare the Annual Report, and submit it to the Society for approval at the Annual Meeting. It shall hold its Annual Meeting just previous to that of the Society. No Member of the Board of Managers shall receive a salary or any compensation for services rendered. Five Members of the Board shall constitute a quorum at any meeting.

The absence of any Member of the Board of Managers from meetings of Committees of which he or she may be a Member, for a consecutive period of three months, without giving notice to the Secretary, may be considered by the President as equivalent to a resignation.

ARTICLE XI.

The Board of Managers shall control the management of the School, shall have power to appoint and remove the Superintendent of the School, and shall determine the salaries of all nurses and subordinates.

ARTICLE XII.

There shall be a Committee upon Nominations, composed of the President and three Managers. The names of persons eligible for managers of this Institution shall be presented to this Committee, and in the event of vacancy in the Board, this Committee shall report and recommend the party or parties eligible for election. After such nominations by the Committee, one month shall elapse, when the election shall take place by ballot at any meeting at which two-thirds of the Managers are present.

ARTICLE XIII.

The Finance Committee shall, with the Treasurer, manage the finances of the Society.

ARTICLE XIV.

Honorary Members shall be chosen only for important service and valuable aid rendered to the School. They shall be exempted from the payment of all dues. They shall be nominated by the Board of Managers, and elected by the Society at its Annual Meeting.

ARTICLE XV.

Benefactors.—Any person who shall give One Thousand Dollars at one time to this Society shall be entitled to all the privileges of Membership, without the payment of annual dues. A Benefactor shall have the right to nominate two pupils, who, upon conforming to the rules for admission, shall have preference over all other applicants to the first two vacancies, and be received and trained in the school.

ARTICLE XVI.

Patrons.—Any person who shall give Five Hundred Dollars at one time to this Society shall be entitled to all the privileges of membership, without the payment of annual dues. A Patron shall have the right to nominate one pupil, who, upon conforming to the rules for admission, shall have a preference to the first vacancy, and be received and trained in the School.

ARTICLE XVII.

Members and Associate Members must be nominated in writing by a Member or Associate Member of the Society; the name of the proposed Member and Proposer being sent to the Secretary, to be submitted for approval to the Board of Managers. If elected, and upon payment of Annual dues, he or she shall become a Member or Associate Member of the Society. The annual dues of a Member shall be ten dollars, of an Associate Member five dollars, payable immediately after election, and subsequently in January of each year. Members shall be entitled to two votes at all Regular and Special Meetings of the Society, and the Associate Members to one vote.

ARTICLE XVIII.

Members and Associate Members may at any time commute all Annual dues for life by the payment of One Hundred Dollars, and Fifty Dollars, respectively.

ARTICLE XIX.

The Annual Meeting of the Society shall be held on the second Wednesday of January. The fiscal year of the Society shall be the calendar year.

ARTICLE XX.

The By-Laws of the Sub-Committee must be in accordance with and subordinate to the By-Laws of the Board of Managers. The By-Laws of the Board of Managers must be in accordance with and subordinate to these By-Laws of the Society. These By-Laws can be amended by a two-thirds vote of Members of the Society, or by a Majority of the Board of Managers, at any Regular or Special Meeting, the text of the proposed amendment having been sent to each member a fortnight previously by the Secretary.
